ClickBank Customer Service

If you see a charge by ClickBank or CLKBANK on your bank statement, chances are that you or a person in your household made a purchase from ClickBank, the internet's largest seller of ebooks, software, and other downloadable products.

If you experience trouble downloading a product, or you have other technical issues with a product, please contact the publisher of the product directly. Contact information for the product's publisher is included in the confirmation email we send you just after you make a purchase. Remember, the product publisher is an expert on the product itself, and can give you personalized customer service. Please be patient and allow the publisher two business days to respond.

If you have contacted the publisher, but after two business days the issue remains unresolved, ClickBank will be happy to assist you directly.

To make a customer service inquiry with regard to a purchase please CLICK HERE to contact a member of our customer service team.
